DESIGNER

Jillien Lum from Renozone Interior Design House

1 Living room

Sticking with a neutral palette that would complement the existing marble flooring, the designer gave the communal space a more upscale appearance by installing a stunning sintered stone slab on the media wall, ambient lighting to enhance the mood and trim on the walls for visual interest. Her clients wanted a storage unit with display shelves, and based on photos they shared, Jillien created a design accented with gold strips for an extra luxe touch.

2 Dining area

Located right by the entrance, this spot was kept simply furnished and accessorised to create a spacious, gallery-like feel. Armed with their designer's furniture suggestions, the owners picked out a matching console and dining table crafted with pink stone and gold frames, pairing them with leggy chairs in a creamy hue to enhance the airiness of the dining space.

3 Son's room

Making the most of a compact bedroom, the designer put in a platform bed by the bay window, adding storage under the stairs and surrounding the other walls with full-height cabinetry.

A table in the middle doubles as a partition, giving the sleeping zone more privacy. As a surprise for the boy, the designer created a laser cutout of the son's name, placing it on a door panel to give the room a more dynamic and personalised appearance.

4 Main bedroom

The bedrooms in the house are small, so the designer had to work out how to fit a large wardrobe, dressing and study table, nightstands and the owners' preferred bed size within the compact footprint. With a different layout in mind, the owners required some convincing to come around to this proposed configuration, but the predominantly white space now fulfils all their needs without feeling cramped.

5 Main bathroom

Going with a classic black and white scheme, the bathroom was given a glam refresh with marble-look tiles on the wall and a mosaic design for the floor. Bold dark blue cabinetry fitted with diffused lighting provides a focal point while offering much-needed storage space for grooming and cleaning supplies.

When surrounding your walls with bulky built-ins, opt for flat-fronted doors in light hues to avoid a heavy and claustrophobic effect.
